Organisation name	Mackay Regional Council
Project title	Jubilee Park Anzac Centenary Project - Stage 2
Project description	This project is for stage two of the upgrade of the heritage listed Jubilee Park in Mackay. Jubilee Park, in the central business district of Mackay is recognised for its grandeur and the memorials that pay tribute to those that have served their country. Stage two includes the construction of the second stage of the memorial Anzac Walk (stage 1 is currently under construction), including landscaping, horticultural works and the installation of bench seating. The completed Anzac Walk will incorporate appropriately themed, image cast brass plaques mounted on low plinths located around the inner and outer paths, allowing users to traverse the park's pathway network to interpret and commemorate the Anzac legacy. To honour the Anzac Centenary in 2015 and beyond, Mackay Regional Council plans to significantly upgrade the park. The upgrade will involve six stages totalling over $800,000. The objective of these works is to improve the amenity, heritage values and usability of the park for future Anzac Day and memorial celebration events regularly held in the park.

Organisation name	Etheridge Shire Council
Project title	Etheridge War Memorial and Cenotaph
Project description	The Etheridge community in far north Queensland will construct a small but relevant memorial to those who not only lost their lives during times of war, but also to those who fought and returned to their loved ones at home. Etheridge Shire Council records and honour roles indicate that approximately 174 people from the Etheridge region fought for Australia. Of that number 121 extraordinary young men and women made the ultimate sacrifice during the First World War. Their service has allowed future generations to live in freedom. The war memorial site is on the western banks of the Etheridge River and covers an area of approximately 60 square metres. The project (using local materials) involves the construction of 6 granite spires, up to 1.5 metres high. The spires represent the strength of the people who fought and lost their lives during wartime. Each spire will incorporate several plaques bearing the names of local soldiers lost during times of conflict.

Organisation name	Diamantina Shire Council
Project title	Diamantina Shire Council's 100th Anniversary ANZAC Memorial Walls
Project description	The council will erect 100th anniversary ANZAC memorial walls in both Birdsville and Bedourie, to honour the citizens of those towns who participated in the First World War. The shire has not officially recognised our local servicemen and women over the past 99 years. The memorial walls will be located in the ANZAC Park of both towns and will list the local individuals who served Australia, either at the battle front or at home, during the four years of a conflict which had such a profound impact on our new federation. The memorial walls will commemorate the deeds of all these serving men and women and will be viewed by generations to come. The deeds of many go untold, including the 8000 Waler horses from Davenport Station that were enlisted and never returned. The Diamantina Shire Council is proud to publicly remind the citizens of the 21st century of the feats of their forefathers and their steeds; the walls will be a living testament of the sacrifices of our soldiers well into the next century.

Organisation name	The University of Queensland Library
Project title	JD Fryer's First World War service: primary materials online
Project description	This project will make publicly available digital copies of more than 120 primary documents relating to JD (Jack) Fryer's wartime service, to commemorate the service and sacrifice of men and women during the First World War. The project has three main aspects: digitising and describing primary material to enable online public access; creating an online exhibition to engage with the community; and a white gloves heritage tour to launch the online collection and raise awareness of the Anzac Centenary. This unique primary material documents the personal experiences of a university student, from his decision to enlist in 1915; through recruitment, overseas training and deployment; frontline warfare and serious injury; until his return to UQ and premature death in 1923. The material has been preserved as part of the extensive JD Fryer collection at the Fryer Library. Digitising and describing these documents to make them publicly available through UQ's institutional repository and the NLA's Trove discovery service will significantly increase access to the collection. The online exhibition will allow users to explore the narrative through the digitised objects, and will provide a focus for the UQ and wider community to commemorate and engage with the centenary.
